Pres. Wilson has joined the American Legion as commander-in-chief of the United States forces. That ought to be an incentive to a grand wind-up of the legion's drive for members.

By the way, the United States army is not yet demobilized and the president's proclamation setting aside wartime prohibition has not been issued. And there is only a little more than three months to the time of constitutional prohibition.

The Brattleboro experiment in strict enforcement of the Sunday laws may furnish a basis for adherence to the laws throughout the remainder of the state. If Sunday baseball and golf are stopped at Brattleboro by law rather than by the weather it is probable that similar action will follow in other sections.

The place in the town of Topsham where a New Hampshire automobile toppled off the road and turned turtle on Sunday is one of the most dangerous in the highway from Bradford to Barre, the combination of a sharp turn and a small bridge furnishing a pitfall for the incautious driver or for anyone who is not well acquainted with the road. The turn comes at the intersection of the main highway with a branch road, the latter road leading straight ahead and seeming to be the course until the motorist is just at the intersection, where a small sign directs one sharply to the left and then over a small bridge. Unless one is driving slowly it takes considerable skill to turn an automobile on the proper road and still remain on the highway. In view of that fact it would be well for the Automobile Club of Vermont, or some other authority interested, to see to it that a warning sign of a dangerous curve is placed at a point a few hundred feet east of the curve. Such a sign might be the means of averting several fatalities inasmuch as the traffic on that highway is constantly increasing.

Fire prevention day will be observed this year on Oct. 9, and on that day all the people will be called upon to make careful observations to see that the heating apparatus, the stovepipes, the chimneys and other things are in proper shape for the long use of the winter months. For those who may start up their furnaces and their stove fires before that date it would be well to make a careful inspection before Oct. 9, for fire prevention day is more or less flexible and is intended to arouse people to the danger of fire whether the application of the warning be on Oct. 9 or on any other day of the year. During the summer, stovepipes have been rotting and the mortar has been falling out of the chimneys, allowing crevices for the escape of sparks in some part of the house perhaps. The possibility of these defects should be guarded against, and the only sure way is to make an examination of the equipment from cellar to top of chimney. That is why a day has been set aside for fire prevention day. It is a warning of a serious duty to perform before the cold weather sets in.

THE UNITED STATES AND THE FIUME INCIDENT.

In his recent response to interrogations regarding the meaning and the scope of the league of nations covenant, as now drawn up, President Wilson explicitly stated that the United States was not bound by that covenant to participate in putting down any revolt or rebellion in a country which was a member of that league. That declaration is particularly important at this time when Italy is undergoing internal disturbances relative to the occupation of Fiume by forces of Capt. D'Annunzio, formerly of the Italian service and when the Italian government is reported to have appealed to the allied powers to expel D'Annunzio from Fiume. Of course, the league of nations is not in being at the present time and the United States has not accepted the covenant in entirety or in part; nor has Italy, for that matter. Yet the spirit of the league of nations covenant must be taken to be more or less the spirit of the supreme peace council of the allies at the present time and is, therefore, a strong guiding influence in determining the attitude of the allies, particularly the United States, toward the Fiume incident. If the spirit of the league of nations covenant is in force, even though the covenant itself has not been accepted, then the United States is freed from any moral or legal obligation to participate in the Fiume incident because that incident is essentially an internal problem, and Wilson has said that the United States is not obligated to interfere in such matters. The United States marines, who are in the neighborhood of Fiume cannot be used, under that interpretation, except to protect American interests.

ROY GILMAN ELECTED PRESIDENT

Of West Orange Co. S. S. Association at Annual Meeting in East Braintree.

The West Orange County Sunday School association held its annual convention at East Braintree on Sept. 18. The opening service was led by the local pastor, Rev. Mr. Chase. Several old familiar hymns were sung and then Mr. Chase read the scripture, selecting the 18th chapter of Matthew. This was followed by a prayer by Rev. K. H. Moore of Randolph. Following this a few more hymns were sung, after which the acting president, Roy Gilman of Randolph Center, introduced the first speaker of the afternoon, Rev. George H. Spencer of Boston. Mr. Spencer spoke on "The Book," bringing out very forcibly how the Bible is to be used in a new sense and a new way to keep up with the great program which the church has instituted; how it must be read devotionally as well as professionally.

Mr. Spencer's address was followed by Rev. Herbert Barker of Randolph Center, who spoke on the subject, "Why Everybody Should Study the Bible." He emphasized the difference between simply reading the Bible and truly studying it. Some of the points which he brought out are: It is everybody's book, as it is free. It is written in every language.

The next speaker was W. B. Glynn of Saxtons River. Mr. Glynn is president of the State Sunday School association and spoke on "Some of Our State Goals." The principal goal for which the leaders are striving now is standard counties throughout the state.

This was the last address of the afternoon session, as the business meeting was immediately called to order by Roy Gilman, acting president, and Mrs. Herbert Barker as secretary pro tem. Roll call was answered by nine schools. The treasurer's report was read and accepted. The secretary's report was read and accepted and a rising vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. E. S. Hewitt of Brattleboro, who, in the absence of the secretary, had done the work.

Mr. Glynn read a letter from Miss Wells concerning the missionary programs of the different schools. Mr. Robbins made an announcement of the state convention, to be held at Bellows Falls the 15th to the 17th of October. It was voted to have the honor roll printed and a copy sent to each Sunday school in the association. The report of the nominating committee was brought in later and the following officers were elected: President, Roy Gilman; secretary, Warren P. Waldo; treasurer, Mrs. R. G. Mann; elementary superintendent, Rev. H. A. Barker; adult superintendent, Mrs. Clarence Booth; home department superintendent, Mrs. O. N. Gates; teacher training superintendent (educational), Mrs. William Hull; temperance superintendent, Roy Emery; missionary superintendent, Mrs. Fraser Metzger; state director, Roy Gilman.

Following the business meeting came the call to supper, which was promptly answered by all present. Everyone did fall just to the beautiful repast furnished by the ladies of the East Braintree Congregational church.

The evening session began at 8 o'clock with a praise service led by Rev. Mr. Chase. For scripture lessons he took the 95th and 110th Psalms. During this service three vocal solos were exceptionally well rendered by local talent. Immediately following this service, the state secretary, G. E. Robbins, gave an address on "God's Appreciation of Youth." He brought out the startling facts that life's greatest decisions are made in youth.

The convention was closed by the singing of a hymn, after which Rev. Mr. Chase pronounced the benediction.

A TRUE LETTER

East Boston, Mass. The following letter may bring advice to other sufferers:

"Dr. J. F. True & Co.: Having heard that your medicine, Dr. True's Elixir, had been on the market for years and years, I thought possibly my ailments would be helped if I tried it. I have spent many dollars in trying to get a laxative which would agree with me—be pleasant to take and yet effective. At last I have it—Dr. True's Elixir, The Family Laxative and Worm Expeller.

"For years I have had a poor appetite—any rich foods disagreed with me, and my headaches were frightful. I was troubled with tired feelings, nervous depression, weakness, spots before my eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness and many other signs of sickness.

"I can now do a day's housework and not mind it, and your Dr. True's Elixir is always handy—I don't know of a better laxative—I give it to my children with wonderful results—it relieves them of worms."
